

ESSENTIAL CIVIL WAR CURRICULUM

Stephen Cushman (University of Virginia) is the author of Bloody Promenade: Reflections on a Civil War Battle (University Press of Virginia, 1999) and Belligerent Muse: Five Northern Writers and How They Shaped Our Understanding of the Civil War (University of North Carolina Press, 2014), as well as recent essays about the Battle of the Crater in fiction and Philip Sheridan's memoirs. The general editor of the Princeton Encyclopedia of Poetry and Poetics, he has published five volumes of poems, many of them about the Civil War, and two critical studies of American poetry. Since 1982 he has taught at the University of Virginia, where he is Robert C. Taylor Professor of English.