

ESSENTIAL CIVIL WAR CURRICULUM

Daniel F. O'Connell (Plymouth State College, NH) is a lifelong resident of the Lakes Region of New Hampshire where he lives with his wife and three children. He frequently contributes campaign studies on lesser known campaigns to the Forum at civilwartalk.com under the name 1sgdan. He recently retired after 30 years as a military engineer for the U.S. Army and Army Reserve. He has built construction projects in Germany, Korea, Kenya, Kuwait, Canada, and across the United States including three tours of duty in Iraq. Additionally he spent two years in Afghanistan working for the US Army Corps of Engineers. His special interest in military engineering operations led to 10 years of research involving Civil War engineers. He is currently working as a quality control consultant for a construction firm in his native New Hampshire.
