

ESSENTIAL CIVIL WAR CURRICULUM

Ryan W. Keating (Fordham University) is an Assistant Professor of History at California State University, San Bernardino where he teaches courses on Civil War, Reconstruction, and the Military History of the United States. His research interests lay in the social history of immigrant soldiers in the Civil War and, in particular, the implications of military service on volunteers and families. He is currently completing a comparative study of three Irish regiments, the 9th Connecticut, 17th Wisconsin, and 23rd Illinois.